Body Autonomy: De-crim, vaccines, abortion and sex work- where do the lines begin and end?

 9:00 AM - 10:15 AM, May 13

📍 New Hampshire / Vermont

Folks from all ends of the political spectrum have found themselves articulating a strong desire for body autonomy. Using decriminalization of drugs, abortion rights, mandatory vaccinations, and sex worker rights as starting points we discuss where lines might begin and where they may end.

Foraging Wild Mushrooms; Discovering your foolproof few

🕒 9:00 AM - 10:15 AM, May 13

📍 Somerset

Collecting and eating wild mushrooms is an intimidating prospect for the beginner. There are so many different mushrooms and some of them are devilishly difficult to tell apart. And some of them are poisonous, a few dangerously toxic. But there are a number of common mushrooms that are great edibles, easily identified and without toxic look alikes. These Foolproof mushrooms may provide you with all the mushrooms you ever want! Join mushrooming author and teacher Greg Marley for a virtual talk devoted to some common “foolproof” mushrooms found in the Northeastern US. This talk will be especially valuable for someone who is just starting out or wants to learn mushrooming.

Plant Based Nutrition - What the heck is Tempeh?

🕒 10:30 AM - 11:45 AM, May 13

📍 Cumberland

"Let food be thy medicine" - Hippocrates. The primary source of information about nutrition historically has been from our governments Standard American Diet (SAD) guidelines which has led to higher levels of obesity, heart disease, and overall poor health. When in fact, eating a plant-based diet with foods as close to their natural state (whole foods) and avoiding highly processed foods and animal products, is the ideal human diet. This presentation will explore the world of a whole food, plant based lifestyle, what to eat daily and what foods to minimize or avoid. Tempeh is a whole food and a great source of protein, fiber, vitamins and minerals and is extremely versatile in the kitchen. We will demonstrate various ways to incorporate this delicious and nutritious superfood into your diet with cooking techniques and recipes.

Soil Fungi: From Persecution to Praise - How soil fungi are bringing agriculture out of the dark ages - Part I

🕒 2:30 PM - 3:45 PM, May 13

📍 Oxford

This presentation will reveal the essential role of decomposing fungi in plant health. Did you know that soil fungi are still thought of only as a source of plant diseases by most commercial farmers? Thankfully there is a growing understanding of the beneficial roles that these decomposers play in the soil. This presentation will explore the similarities and differences between fungal soil pathogens and beneficial saprophytic fungi. With a holistic view we can understand the role of fungi as central players in the soil food web. The emphasis of this talk will be on cultivated soils.

The Ecology of Consciousness

🕒 10:30 AM - 11:45 AM, May 14

Our consciousness did not arise alone. Consciousness is the fruiting body of a vast mycelial organism whose tendrils entwine with the roots of ancient trees and ephemeral wildflowers. Songs and poems are spores on the wind, carrying all we have known and felt and been to new soil where life might begin its wild fractal branching again. Psychedelic compounds that plants and fungi evolved to help grow those networks of consciousness can help us reweave ourselves back into connection with the living world.

This is no joke: Tales from the dark side, the bright side, the inside

🕒 1:00 PM - 2:15 PM, May 14

📍 Oxford

Kristina Ellery, Founder & Head Minister of Sacred Earth Sanctuary, takes us on a semi funny, but mostly serious journey into the reality of working with Psilocybin. After nearly 3 years of holding ceremonial space, Kristina will share tales from the dark side, the bright side, the inside, and the importance of experience, integrity, and Spirit. This workshop is ideal for anyone considering participating in a ceremony, becoming a psilocybin guide, and/or opening a church.

Art and Permaculture: Connecting the dots

🕒 1:00 PM - 2:15 PM, May 14

📍 Lincoln

In this workshop we will explore a complex network of relationships between these subjects, in how they inform and support one another. Beginning with a brief introduction to Permaculture - a design science built on observation of natural systems and processes to aid in design of sustainable agriculture, architectural and social systems. We will then explore the role Art and Social Permaculture strategies could play as we work to redesign our cultural and legal relationships with Psychedelics.

Weaving the Mycelial Economy: Creating interconnected and cooperative businesses, organizations and networks

🕒 1:00 PM - 2:15 PM, May 14

📍 Cumberland

How do we integrate the interconnected wisdom of mushrooms into our businesses, organizations, and networks? Through this interactive and co-creative workshop, participants will have the opportunity to develop ideas and visions for new projects in the mushroom and psychedelic space or can explore how to evolve their existing business or organization to be in alignment with the experience of interconnectedness. Drawing upon roots of cooperatives, decentralized collective organizing, Holocracy and sociocracy, regenerative economy and the solidarity economy, we will explore how we can grow organizations that are heart-centered, aligned with purpose and in harmony with people and the planet.

Plant Based Nutrition - What the heck is Tempeh?

🕒 1:00 PM - 2:15 PM, May 14

📍 Connecticut

“Let food be thy medicine” - Hippocrates. The primary source of information about nutrition historically has been from our governments Standard American Diet (SAD) guidelines which has led to higher levels of obesity, heart disease, and overall poor health. When in fact, eating a plant-based diet with foods as close to their natural state (whole foods) and avoiding highly processed foods and animal products, is the ideal human diet. This presentation will explore the world of a whole food, plant based lifestyle, what to eat daily and what foods to minimize or avoid. Tempeh is a whole food and a great source of protein, fiber, vitamins and minerals and is extremely versatile in the kitchen. We will demonstrate various ways to incorporate this delicious and nutritious superfood into your diet with cooking techniques and recipes.
